Why study with New Pathways?

About New Pathways

New Pathways is a Welsh third sector organisation with nearly 30 years of experience in counselling adults and children affected by sexual abuse and delivering training on sexual violence, trauma and related social care topics. We have a strong reputation in both counselling and training and provide a supportive environment with expert tutors who are both practising counsellors and qualified teachers. We offer a learning experience that is authentic and professional, from your first step into counselling through to professional development with an expert diploma in working with trauma and a certificate in counselling supervision. We provide opportunities for course progression, in-house placements, and further CPD. As a charity, any income generated from our Counselling College is returned to our charitable services so we can continue to support people affected by sexual violence.

About CPCAB

Our courses are validated by the CPCAB (Counselling & Psychotherapy Central Awarding Body). CPCAB is a UK awarding body that is managed by professional counsellors, trainers and supervisors. Operating for 25 years, they are the only awarding body in Europe to specialise in the field of counselling.

“ Going to college or university can seem daunting, whereas completing a course at New Pathways seemed 'doable' for me, and I wanted a course that was respected in the counselling world.

I've got an incredible amount out of this course. I learnt so much about the skills needed to be a helper, and eventually a counsellor. It has been about so much more than just counselling skills, it's been about people and about life.

“ The tutors made the experience memorable and it was like we were all peers, not students. We all bonded so well and, even though it was online, it was a safe space and we got the quality of the teaching. It was really enjoyable; in fact, it was awe-inspiring. I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the staff at New Pathways for all of their support, and I wish I'd done all of my training with New Pathways.

“ A lot of people start practising as counsellors after level 4, unaware of what they don't know about trauma. I believe that everyone should do this course to learn about stabilisation and phased approaches to trauma work.

The New Pathways tutors are amazing, the course was so much more structured than my level 4 at University, and it was all perfectly delivered over Zoom.

Studying with New Pathways, I've felt so supported and I've grown so much in confidence. I can see it in my writing and in my practice. I have had extra support with my dyslexia and we get support and guidance with the technology.

I am so pleased I did this course. We were all treated as professionals throughout and have learnt so much from each other.

" Thank you so much for the course, it's been really interesting, friendly and accessible. I've learnt a lot about myself, and about counselling and listening skills. There is much more to it than people realise. I've always wanted to be a counsellor and I intend to continue my journey with New Pathways. The learning style here suits me perfectly and everything is really structured and clear, with friendly and responsive tutors. "

- Deborah

" I just love this course. I can't tell you how much. It is exceeding all of my expectations. I have learnt more in 10 weeks than I did for all two years of my university diploma. The tutors are amazing and the group are so lovely. I look forward so much to every Tuesday. "
